SEVEN ARE INJURED IN TWO CAR CRASH

Well Known Resident Dies On Sunday

Mrs. Dixie Robinson, 82, one of Murray's oldest residents, died suddenly at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Charlie Gibbs, 1641 Farmer Avenue, Sunday at 6 p.m. Even though her death was sudden she had been in ill health and bedfast for the past few months.

The deceased was the former Dixie Roark and was born and reared in the Penny community. She was employed as clerk for the O. T. Hale Company, now the National Stores, Inc., for many years. The hobby of Mrs. Robinson was crocheting and during her later years she had made many beautiful pieces some of which were entered in the national contest at New York last summer.

Mrs. Robinson was a member of the J. N. Williams chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy. She had been a member of the North Pleasant Grove Cumberland Presbyterian Church for over 60 years.

Survivors are her daughter, Mrs. Gibbs; one son-in-law, Roy Hurt of Murray; one granddaughter, Mrs. S. F. Jones of Alliance, Ohio; three grandsons, William Hurt, Fred Dale Gibbs and Don Gibbs of Murray; six great grandchildren. Funeral services will be conducted at North Pleasant Grove this afternoon at 3:30 with the Rev. Joe Ben Tiby and Rev. Earl Phelps officiating.

Active pallbearers will be Jesse

Marine, Louis Nanny, Burr Waldrop, George Steele, Jimmie Jones and Virgil Gibbs. Honorary pallbearers will be the members of the North Pleasant Grove Church and also J. T. Watts, Vernon Hale and W. L. Story.

Burial will be in the church cemetery with the J. H. Churchill Funeral Home in charge of arrangements.

Slayer Is Mobbed Kicked

NEW YORK May 25 (UP)—Two mounted policemen rescued a killer Sunday when he was attacked with rocks and baseball bats by an infuriated mob of ball game spectators in Central Park.

Edward Cartagena, 42, was dragged from the hands of a crowd of Sunday afternoon pleasure seekers who had watched in horror as he killed Mrs. Carmella Olivo, 32, with repeated strokes of a paring knife.

The speedy arrival of the mounted patrolmen, who charged into the mob with their horses, was credited with saving Cartagena's life. He was treated at a hospital for severe cuts and bruises and later booked on homicide charges.

Mrs. Olivo died within minutes after she was accosted by Cartagena as she stood with her sister among other spectators at a baseball game between two teams of the Spanish Catholic League. Police said Mrs. Olivo a widow, had lived with Cartagena until they quarreled about six months ago.

Cartagena and Mrs. Olivo exchanged angry words, witnesses said. "Leave me alone," she complained.

"What's the matter? Are you afraid of me?" Cartagena was heard to say.

Then he suddenly whipped out a red-handled kitchen knife with a five inch blade. He wounded her with one thrust, and then followed her waving the knife as she ran screaming for help.

Mrs. Olivo ran into a "cage" formed by the wire backstops of four baseball diamonds. Cartagena caught her there and plunged the knife repeatedly into her back, witnesses told police.

The spectators, at first frozen with horror, descended with vengeance on Cartagena. He held them away for a moment with menacing waves of his knife, but then fell under the blow of a baseball bat. Then he was pummeled, kicked, clawed and beaten with rocks and bats.

First Atomic Artillery Is Fired Today In Nevada

By ROBERT BENNYHOFF
United Press Staff Correspondent
LAS VEGAS, Nev. May 25 (UP)—America fired the world's first atomic artillery shell today and it exploded over the Nevada desert proving grounds.

The firing of the atomic artillery rifle, dubbed "Amazon Annie" by her GI crew, was a milestone in the advancement of nuclear warfare since the United States raised the curtain on the atom bomb at Alamogordo, N. M., eight years ago.

The Atomic Energy Commission announced that the 84-foot, 288 millimeter cannon was fired at 11:31 a.m. EDT.

Congressmen, troops and defense officials witnessing the test saw a flash of fire from the muzzle and a huge billow of white-yellow sulphurous smoke in front of the monstrous 25-ton cannon.

The power of the explosion showed the advance that the United States has made in atomic armament.

The bomb that made shambles of Nagasaki and Hiroshima, was equivalent to 20,000 tons of TNT and the shell fired today was equivalent to only 5,000 tons less in explosive power.

Yet it was packed into a far smaller package — estimated at three feet long and 11 inches in diameter.

The cannon, has a maximum range of 28 miles, but today's shell traveled only seven miles before it burst above the target-studded dry lake called Frenchman's Flat. Two of the cannons—one a standard—were on hand for today's test.

The 10th and final nuclear shot of the series, which is the present series at the Nevada proving grounds.

Witnessing the test were senators and representatives including Rep. W. Sterling Cole (R-N. Y.) the chairman of the joint congressional Atomic Energy Commission, and other high-ranking government officials including Secretary of Defense Charles Wilson, retiring Army Chief of Staff J. Lawton Collins and the nominee for chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Adm. Arthur Radford.

There were no casualties to either the 3100 participating military officers and enlisted men, crouched approximately 5,000 yards away from the detonation point, nor to the crew that loaded the gun and then ducked into protective earthen dugouts before the same safe distance, before the gun was set off electronically.

William B. Crawford, age 39, former Graves County, died Monday night of a heart attack in his hotel room in Atlanta, Ga. He was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Earnest Crawford.

Survivors include one daughter, Mary Ann Crawford of Murray; three brothers, John Frank and A. B. Crawford, all of Detroit, Mich.; two sisters, Mrs. Clyde Crockett and Mrs. Harold Rieley of Detroit, Mich.

After his graduation from Murray State College in 1936 he served as principal of the high schools of Conyers, Ga., and Griffin, Ga., for several years. At the time of his death he was connected with the Ginn Publishing Company in Atlanta, Ga.

Funeral services were conducted at the Byrd Funeral Home in Mayfield Friday morning at 11 o'clock with Bro. Sutherland in charge. Burial was in the Chapel Hill Cemetery.

Mrs. E. G. Moody In Poor Health At Murray Hospital

Seven persons were injured, one critically, in a two car head-on collision, in a one mile east of New Concord on the Highway 121 Sunday, afternoon about five o'clock.

E. G. Moody of Murray Route 1 driving a 1951 Dodge Wayfarer collided with a 1951 Hudson driven by Ashbel Brunson of Christian County.

Mrs. Moody who was in the front seat with her husband is in critical condition and is reported in poor condition this morning by the Murray Hospital officials. She was thrown through the windshield of the car and was cut badly. While awaiting the ambulance she was laid on the side of a road on a blanket doubled four times which was soaked in blood when she was removed. Cuts were evident on her face, neck, arms, legs and back. According to members of the family she had hardly any blood pressure when she was received at the hospital and she was given blood transfusions immediately.

Mrs. Moody received cuts about the face.

The couple in the front seat of the Hudson were also hurt badly. The driver Ashbel Brunson, was thrown against the steering wheel which was practically bent double. He was bleeding at the nose and mouth. He was unable to walk but was sitting on the side of the road awaiting the ambulance. The lady on the right hand side received a broken ankle and arm. The bone in her ankle was protruding from the skin. She remained in the same position in the car constantly until the ambulance arrived. The other lady and one of the men in the back seat were injured some, but their injuries were not evident at a glance. The other man in the back seat seemed not to be injured and stayed at the scene of the accident until the State Police arrived.

Mr. and Mrs. Moody were returning to their home from a visit with relatives on the other side of Concord when the accident occurred.

The incident happened in front of the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Kindred. Mrs. Kindred and her mother were on the scene immediately with water and cloths to try to help relieve the bleeding of the persons involved.

The nearest telephone available was in the Cherry Corner community, but the two Max Churchhill Funeral Home's ambulances driven by James Shelton and James Mason Churchhill were on the scene.

Big Inning Puts Dodgers Back In Pennant Mood Sunday

By CARL LUNDQVIST
United Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK, May 25 (UPI)—The most memorable big inning in Philadelphia since the 1929 world series put the Dodgers back into a pennant mood today.

Swinging savagely against lefty ace Curt Simmons and four successors, the Bookers pounded out 12 runs in the eighth inning to set two new major league marks and tie a third in a 16-2 demolition of the Phillies Sunday.

The battling Bookers reeled off their 12 runs before an out was made to top a previous major league mark of 11 set by Detroit against the Yankees in 1925. And both Power Reese and Curt Furillo hit bases loaded triples to set another mark. The use of five pitchers by the Phils in one inning tied a third record.

The rally recalled the famed seventh inning of the 1929 world series at Philadelphia when the Athletics, trailing 3-8, poured over 10 runs against the Cubs to win the game. And it also recalled a night by the Phils on June 2, 1949 when they scored 10 runs in the eighth inning to defeat Cincinnati 12-3 as five homers were hit, two by Andy Semick. But Sunday's production was the biggest of all.

Brooklyn batted for 44 minutes, sending up 16 men. There were seven hits and six walks in the spree.

Junior Gilliam and Duke Snider each hit two doubles for Brooklyn and Billy Cox got four singles as reliever Johnny Podres gained his first big league game. There was one "oddy" — despite the heavy hitting it marked the first game this year in which neither the Dodgers nor their opponents hit a homer.

The Giants kept up their first pace with an 11-3 victory over the Pirates white league — leading Milwaukee topped the Cubs 5-4, then lost 3-2. The Cards topped the Reds 2-0, behind five-hit pitching by Gerry Staley. In the American League the Yankees breezed to an 8-4 victory over the Red Sox while the Indians twice defeated the Browns, 5-1 and 7-3, to move into second place, 3 1/2 games behind the New Yorkers. Washington topped the Athletics, 6-3, and Chicago defeated Detroit, 2-1.

Bobby Thomson and Alvin Dark each drove in three runs, Thomson connecting for his seventh homer in New York's 16th, demoralizing at Pittsburgh. Dark, Monte Irvin and Whitey Liebknecht each made three hits as Larry Jansen, with relief help from every body, kept the Sox from scoring. Hoyt Wilhelm, won his fourth game.

Milwaukee scored five runs in the second inning but lost, 1-0, to the Braves. The Braves, who were paralyzed into the winning rally in the eighth, Vern Rickford gained his first victory in relief after Roy Shalvey's homer for Chicago in the second game. The Cubs also crashed in a big inning, scoring three runs in the first then coasting to a 10-1 victory for Johnny Knapke.

Staley missed his sixth straight victory after an opening day defeat but he had to be good because the Braves, who had only four hits. The Cards picked up the run they needed to win in the second when Del Rhee singled and Rip Repulski doubled him home.

Johnny Sam, was the big wheel at Yankee Stadium, pitching a steady eight hitter for his fourth victory and driving home four runs with a bases-loaded double and a long fly. Gene Stephens hit his first big league homer for the Red Sox when he led the ninth inning home at New York.

"Cleveland made it seven victories in a row for the season over St. Louis with its seven in the opener. Early Wynn pitched a four-hit ball for his fifth win and Al Rosen hit a three-run homer. The Indians rebounded from a 3-2 defeat in the second game by a 5-0 victory over the Braves.

Bob Revere pitched two-hit relief ball for six innings and Chicago put over two runs in the ninth on a walk to Perry Fane, sacrificed by Minnie Miñoso, a double by Sam Mele and a single by Jim Rivera at Detroit.

Washington gained 17th victory Tuesday pitching a production by Gene Marrett, who picked up his third straight victory while Jackie Jensen drove in three runs and Mackey Vornell extended his hitting streak to 15 games with a single and double, also lasting in two runs.

Fourth Game

Milwaukee scored five runs in the second inning but failed to hit a home run. The Braves were parlayed into a winning rally in the openning. Binkley gained his first win in relief role. Roy S. Brown, who had pitched the one game, the Cubs also cashed in.

A bus' inning scored the runs in the first then coupling a 10-hit victory for Johnny K. Stoen.

Stoen pitched his sixth straight victory after an opening day feat but he had to be good. The lower end of the line was only four hits. The Cards put up the run they needed to win the second when Del Rice and Rip Repaski doubled home.

Johnny Sain was the big star at Yankee Stadium, pitching steady until hitler for his first victory and driving home the runs with a bases-loaded double a long fly. Gene Stephens hit the first big league homer.

Stoen pitched a complete game, winning his first victory in relief role. Roy S. Brown, who had pitched the one game, the Cubs also cashed in.

Memorial Day Race To Be One Of Vets
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 25 (UPI)—Next Saturday's 500-mile Indianapolis Motor Speedway auto race shaped up today as a battle of veterans, with such speed demons as Bill Vukovich and former champion Bill Holland blazing the way in the fastest field yet.

Vukovich, the Fresno, Calif., hard-luck pilot who hit the wall last year leading the pack with only eight laps to go, grabbed the pole position 4 weeks ago with an average speed of 138.392 miles an hour for the 10-mile sprint.

That was the swiftest ride in the 33-car race day line-up. Holland came close, but that mark Sunday when he rounded back after his original car was bumped by a faster one to reel off his run at a clip of 137.881.

But, while the field's average of 136.435 is nearly one mile an hour faster than last time, the track records of 139.600 and 139.034 for one and four laps, respectively remained untouched.

Those marks were set by the late Chet Miller in a low-slung Novi car last year. However, the slowest car this time was clocked in 135.262, by a new comer John Thomas of Lowell, Mass. Last year's slowest was 133.904.

Sunday's show belonged to Holland. It was a masterful exhibition of driving skill by the oldest pilot in the field, who, at the age of 45, is staging a stirring comeback after sitting out a two-year suspension for participating in "out-law" races.

The 1949 speedway king, never worse than second in four races here, was chauffeuring a car strange to him and in which at least three other drivers had failed to get up high speeds.

He was the third, last qualifier and jumped back into the thick of it shortly after a car he qualified Saturday at 134.435 was ousted by Bob Sweikert of Indianapolis, who hit 136.872.

The 33 qualifiers get 30 minutes for final tune-ups today and Tuesday before the track is closed for clean gun final inspections.

Warren Hacker Top Hard Luck Pitcher

CHICAGO, May 25 (UPI)—Warren Hacker of the Chicago Cubs, with a record of one victory against seven defeats, is one of the top "hard luck" pitchers of the season.

Four of his losses came in games where the Cubs were shut out — 3-0, 2-0, 2-0, and 1-0. Two others he lost by one run — 4-3 and 5-4 — and the other he lost by two runs, 6-4.

In Sunday's 5-4 loss to Milwaukee, three of the runs he gave up, were unearned.

Manufacturing plants continued to reduce the number of employee accidents during 1952. Twelve per cent fewer employees suffered injuries severe enough so they had to take time off.

The "moon" came out so the milky way
And made an ending of the day.
The stars were gleaming by the side

New Soil Poisons For Termites
DDT and benzene hexachloride are superior to other poisons commonly recommended in the past for controlling subterranean termites. According to Ralph A. Nelson, District Forester, Kentucky Division of Forestry, Mayfield, research reported by the Southern Forest Experiment Station Forest Experiment Station in their 1952 annual report shows that 9 percent DDT in fuel oil is still effective eight years after treatment while benzene hexachloride in kerosene continues to give complete protection six years after treatment.

Cruise with Death

CHAPTER FIFTEEN
The captain pulled down his brows, looked at all over with a vicious contempt, then rapped sharply on the table to get our attention.

"That's one country heard from," he announced, "but it strikes me there's more here than that has explaining to do." He reached in his pocket, pulled out an envelope, extracted from it a torn piece of blue paper. "This is an old letter, Miss Walton. This was written on ship's paper, on the type-writer in the reading room. Hez cleuthed it out. Now what have you to say?"

Gay gasped, and her hand went to her throat. The tormented heroines of half a dozen films looked out of her immense eyes, and it was easy to see why she had been so successful in the roles. Under her little airs and artificialities, there was a deep sincerity. She really rose the hunted child.

"Don't tell him, Randy. Please don't tell him," Randy said.

Randolph shrugged. "My dear girl, the explanation is so simple that it is better to come out with it. I wrote the note myself." He turned to the captain with a man-to-man candor. "Like many highly strung and artistic people, Miss Walton suffers from migraine headaches. I prescribed some tablets for her which were rather powerful, and added a caution about unnecessary use of them such as I would give to any patient."

In the silence which followed this logical statement, every face registered distrust, and Randolph asked the question for them all.

"Why so much secrecy about a simple matter?"

Randolph hesitated, and Gay pressed her handkerchief to her mouth. "Don't tell, Randy. Please don't tell."

Robert leaned toward her protectively. Like a hundred million other people he found her frightened helplessness irresistible. "Let him tell, Miss Walton. You can't have much to be ashamed of."

"Of course not," Randolph said. "People are much more understanding about mental trouble now than they used to be."

But Gay could not accept this questionable comfort. She cracked under the inquisition, and jumped up, crying wildly. "My mother was insane, that's what she was. Insane. So now you know..." She stuffed her handkerchief into her mouth and ran from the room. We could hear her choked sobbing as she went along the corridor above.

Larry half rose as if he were going to follow her, then sank back heavily. The rest of us sat stunned until the captain's voice rapped our nerves again.

"So far as I can see, all this gets nowhere. There's motives to burn in this crowd, that's plain. But who fired the shot? If you ask my opinion you were after the old man's money, the lot of ye. Now I'm over on the bridge. The weather's making up. It's my duty to warn ye to get set for a blow."

"Look out for yourself, captain."

Brown said truculently. "You'll badder us too far one of these days."

"I'll look out for myself, all right," Jones answered. Then he left the room, his hand boots striking like hammers on the deck.

Robert and I went to my cabin. "Did you get your sandwich?" he asked.

It was a most unfortunate question, because it revived all my memory of that treacherous conversation with Carlotta, and the punishment of jealousy—but now could he know that? "My sandwich?" I exclaimed in a sort of squeak.

"No. I see it on the dresser. It will be a bit stale by now, but I advise you to eat it. Food is going to be scarce. I did some fraternizing in the galley this afternoon, and made a friend or two."

"Fraternizing?" I said bitterly. "Robert was the picture of blank innocence. What's wrong with that?"

I was on the verge then of telling him everything that I had overheard, and of course I should have, but some childish pique held me back.

"Like a fool, like any silly jealous woman, I shifted my ground," Mrs. Redding is beautiful, isn't she?"

"Maddy," Robert agreed.

This was unsatisfactory. It left me floundering on.

"I've observed you think so," I said, making matters worse.

I could see Robert deciding to ignore this.

"It Todd insults you again I'll have his blood," he said.

The sudden change of subject masked me though in spite of myself. "Oh for goodness sake! I suppose he thinks I am not a real ladyship and that is his way of making me feel it. And of course I'm not, you know."

"But you are. You are my wife, I just never think about it," he said. "I'd have married you if you were the buttermilk boy."

"By jove, I really believe you would have at that!" he laughed.

I shrugged off the hands he had laid on my shoulders.

"Let's not talk now. I'm tired. I'd like to go to bed. My voice was sharper than I had meant to make it."

Robert looked as if I had slapped him. "Whatever you say. Bit edgy, aren't you, but whatever you say," he answered, and left me with surprising speed.

The door had no sooner closed than I wished him back. I had not behaved very well, and instinctively I knew it. My faith should have been stronger. But a misanthropic feeling between us was so unusual that I felt uprooted by it.

To relieve my feelings, after a while I got out my notebook and wrote down in a shorthand which only I could read, all that had happened during that afternoon and evening, and what I felt about it. Sometimes the page blurred so in front of my eyes that I had to blink hard to see it again.

Tomorrow, I thought, I'll show this to Robert, and we'll laugh about it together.

No repentment wasted me

The regency and kingship of George IV marked the fall, exile and death of the greatest threat to British security before Stalin - Napoleon. He was a British prisoner at Longwood [1] on St. Helena.

Wanted
George IV, born 1762, was the eldest son of George III. He was regent for his insane father for nine years before he became king - a hated one. His only child, Charlotte, died in childbirth, so the crown passed to a younger brother, much to the relief of his subjects.

William IV, born 1765, was called "the Sailor King" because he served some time in the Navy. His accession at 65 moved him to put aside a mistress, Dorothy Jordan, an actress, who had borne him 10 children. He married a German princess, Adelaide of Saxe-Coburg. She had two children, but both died in infancy, so the throne passed to his 18-year-old niece, the great Victoria I.

THE BIG STAR

In 1951 a man came to Murray State College. He went out for the varsity team when starting to Murray. No one had ever heard of a twenty-six year old man trying to play varsity ball, but this player ended the 1951 season with over five-hundred points.

In 1951 this man made the first team at Murray. He played along with the all-American Bonnie Purcell who scored the best record at Murray for four years.

We have caught up with this man's background, now let's talk about his last and final year as he played it.

Number sixteen of Murray trying to break the basketball record, does break the record with each score he makes. He's trying to make all-American ball player and with a lot of competition he has a bid for all-American.

Let's go to Oklahoma City where this man gets his back hurt and loses the ball game.

With the O.V.C. Tournament coming up "daddy" is in bed with his back hurt and his other teammates are badly shaken up.

The O.V.C. Tournament is ready to start. Murray State vs. Middle Tennessee is a real game but Murray went over Tennessee about twenty points. Now Murray is to go with the Eastern Maroons in a fight that will go down in history. Murray lost by ten points.

Now Murray is out of the tournament; they go back home.

This man has broken all the records at Murray State and has forty-points in two games.

This man will go down in history at Murray, and at other schools also.

This man is none other than the big Garrett Bestair.

Easy Shower Refreshments

IT'S a home-made shower but it looks so smart. Paper love birds perch in a bowl made of fern, daisies and wire. Home-made cookies, the dough blended in 2 minutes using basic cookie mix from the grocery store, have that professional appearance. But actually, they're just double rings of rolled cookie dough and hearts cut from the same dough with a heart-shaped cookie cutter. Tiny roses of pink frosting frame the hearts. Silver dragées encircle the lady's ring in the double ring cookie ceremony.

Happy forecast of the coming wedding as well as good refreshments to serve with tea or coffee.

LIFE'S FLOW

My soul is like a river,
Flowing over the stones of life.
There are many jagged ones,
That cut me like a knife.
Life isn't always a smooth and steady flow.
For as I live there are many rapids below.
Where my soul is tossed and troubled,
And almost torn apart.
What will become of my poor and broken heart?
When I reach the ocean and start out through the blue,
Will I have guided my river as He would want me to?

THINGS I LOVE

A blue sky on a summer day
A shock of corn in a field of hay
A field of clover in bloom in red
These things are beautiful and I'll love them till I am dead.
A field of March flowers of yellow so gay
A grunting brook on its merry way.
The moon and stars on a clear summer night.
These things I love with all my might.
The song of a songbird so cherry and bright.
God made all these things so I know they are right.
